News Items.

Members of the chemical company will hold their annual concert and ball on Thursday evening, November 27, at the town hall. Concert by McNally's orchestra, six pieces, from eight to 8.45. Dancing until one o'clock. This party has always been one of the best social parties of the year and the firemen are putting in every effort to make this year's in no respect lacking. Tickets may be had from any member of the company.

Next week Friday evening Marshall Darrach will appear in the reading of Julius Caesar under the auspices of the Warner free lecture course.

Mrs. Allan Brooks is quite ill at her rooms with Mrs. Ripley. She has the services of a trained nurse and is getting on very comfortably.

At the Massachusetts apple show held in Boston November 12-16, apples from Fruit Acres exhibited by H. A. Thayer, proprietor, won three first prizes. Mr. Thayer also contributed ten boxes of Starks as a part of the Massachusetts state exhibit. Mr. Thayer has taken an intense interest in getting his fruit before the public and is proving wherever he has exhibited that Harvard farms are capable of producing the best apple crops in this part of the country. In competition with Mr. Thayer were exhibits from all over the New England states and part of New York state.

Isaac Baker is confined to the house with a broken rib which he sustained in a fall while alighting from the coach last week Wednesday evening.

Adverse weather conditions failed to keep away one hundred members of the Unitarian parish and others from listening to Rev. C. S. Bodwell on Sunday morning last at the regular morning service, his first sermon to the people as pastor-elect. After the services, the people remaining, Mr. Bodwell conducted an informal reception, getting a friendly word of greeting with all present. This Sunday there will be a special musical program, the full chorus choir will sing. Work on the parsonage is to be finished rapidly and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy about January 1st. A water supply and bath room equipment are to be installed, besides general repairs with painting and papering.

In the superior court at Worcester on Wednesday morning, Lawrence F. Fitzgerald, of Boston, charged with recklessly driving an auto, while under the influence of liquor, was called for trial before Judge Ratigan, was found guilty and sentenced to serve two months in the Summer street jail. Fitzgerald and two companions, at one o'clock on the morning of August 1, left Boston in an auto, drove to Worcester and then to Clinton, and then came to Harvard, and was arrested by Constable William Hanna after Fitzgerald had wrecked the auto on a post in front of Arthur H. Turner's residence.

Miss Nell T. Hartshorn opens the last half of her dancing school on Tuesday afternoon. Friends of the class are invited to be present. Ice cream and cake will be for sale.

A. T. West visited with his mother and family at Westboro last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Thomas is spending this week-end with friends in Boston and vicinity.

Fred T. Whitney and Cedric Webster started Wednesday last for a ten days' or more trip to Kentville, Nova Scotia.

The first pleasant day in the history of the Harvard Woman's club, together with the interest felt in the subject for the afternoon, "Town betterment," drew a large number of women to the I. O. O. F. hall, November 17. After business had been dispatched, including the reception of four new members and the presentation of two names, a brief recess was taken, allowing an opportunity for those who had not already done so, to make their peace with the treasurer.

Mrs. Hattie Mason presented a fine paper upon "Child welfare," and urged, among other things, the importance of providing proper outlets for the pent up activities of the child in the way of games, playgrounds and gymnasiums.

Mrs. Sarah Seales made an eloquent plea for an agricultural training for our boys and produced many facts and statistics to prove the advantages to be derived from such a cause, not only to the boys themselves but to the community at large. Mrs. Cordelia Putnam spoke on a facetious view along the line of "Village improvement" and as a means of making our beautiful town still more attractive suggestive that our public grounds be kept in better condition, public horse sheds built, that the sanitation of public buildings be carefully looked after and that our roads be improved.

Mrs. Etta Ripley, having acquainted herself thoroughly regarding the public water supply of some of our sister towns, had much of interest to say along that line. The conservation of our shade and fruit trees and the better protection of our forests by means of lookout stations proved topics of interest to all.

If any suggestions made during the afternoon seem calculated to make our town more attractive may they speedily be adopted.

THERE'S one announcement that comes out pretty regularly twice a year, that ought to give the greatest satisfaction to every man who reads it. This is it:
